Last Days in Vietnam

Sunday, October 29, 2017 | 6:00 PM

During the chaotic final weeks of the Vietnam War, the North Vietnamese Army closes in on Saigon as the panicked South Vietnamese people desperately attempt to escape. On the ground, American soldiers and diplomats confront the same moral quandary: whether to obey White House orders to evacuate U.S. citizens only—or to risk punishment and save the lives of as many South Vietnamese citizens as they can.

The events recounted in the film mainly center on the US evacuation of Saigon codenamed Operation Frequent Wind.

Produced and Directed by Rory Kennedy, Last Days in Vietnam was a 2015 Academy Award® nominee for Best Documentary Feature.

Enjoy a discussion following the film facilitated by antiwar protesters Marilyn Levin and Duncan McFarland, and Alfred Johnson, who spent over a year in an Army stockade for refusing orders to Vietnam.
